Awful Crime Near Nanaimo

"I arrest you." "What for?" Featherstone sleepily inquired. "For murdering Mary Jane Dalton." "Murder in the first degree?" Featherstone interrogated as he sat up. "Yes" was the reply. The murderer either was dazed from liquor or he was ashamed, but he did not seek to evade the charge that was preferred against him, and maintained the same careless attitude yesterday. Time and again he was told of whom he was charged with murdering, but kept repeating he had killed no man, and evidently wished to give the impression that he thought he was being arrested for some deed he had committed in Samoa, from which place he had come to South Wellington about three weeks ago.

Out in the street the prisoner was nearly lynched before being taken to Nanaimo. The inhabitants of South Wellington, where all her life poor Mary Dalton had resided, was terribly aroused, and a crowd of sturdy citizens and old timers, men who have grown white haired in the little mining town, made a demonstration against him. Repeatedly old friends of John Dalton rushed at the prisoner, and had it not been for the prompt action of cooler heads it would have fared ill for the handcuffed man. One old man went for his gun, and only the struggles of his wife prevented a second killing.

Featherstone, the suspect, came to South Wellington about three weeks ago, to take the place of head sawyer at the mill. He came from Paris, Ont. where he says he has a brother running the Paris Star newspaper. He showed the Province representative a copy of the paper in which was detailed the account of the accidental killing of his brother George, at Sumas, Wash., on July 12. The alleged murderer is a man 42 years of age, and is said to be one of the best sawyers on the Pacific coast. Since coming to South Wellington he has been a heavy drinker. On Friday he spent the evening carousing and drinking in female company, according to his own story, in a downtown hotel in Nanaimo. On Saturday morning early he was driven to the village, and is said to have shown his revolver quite freely. He was not acquainted with the murdered girl.

Featherstone, the suspect, is 42 years of age, weight 160 pounds, is about 5 ft. 10 in. in height, is sharp-featured, watchful and alert. He came to the coast some years ago and for many years was sergeant of the North West Mounted Police, serving from 1888 until 1892 under Col. Stebbins and others. He will appear for preliminary hearing today.

Mr. Chas. Brumfit was moved from his home at New Lunnion to the public hospital, Edmonton, on Sunday night, suffering from typhoid fever.

Haying is in full swing.

Owing to the condition of the weather there was not a large crowd at the New Lunnion picnic, but those who did turn out certainly enjoyed themselves.

Rev. F. G. Rickard bid farewell to his people in this district last Sunday evening. Mutineers Surrender Fortress After a Fierce Bombardment

Prof. Miulokog and H. Hesse and others were excluded from the lower house. The correspondent of the Associated Press met two prominent peasant deputies who had cut off their luxuriant hair and beards, and who were scarcely recognized in this guise. The government in abandoning its attitude not to prosecute the signers of the Viborg manifesto, evidently was influenced by the need of doing something to counteract the effect of the Viborg address.

The government doubtless also desired to check the flood of other manifestos which members of the late house are putting forth in connection with the revolutionary actions. A manifesto to the peasants of Russia has been issued in the joint names of all labor, socialistic and revolutionary organizations. It declares that the hopes reposed in the lower house of parliament have been blasted by the diabolical plans of the grand dukes, courtiers and the more wealthy land owners surrounding the emperor, whose only purpose is the maintenance of their power over the people.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The triangular truce between the Armenians, Tartars and the Russian troops at Susha, was the briefest moment. The display of white flags and the naming of representatives of the warring factions to arrange a lasting peace was but a prelude to the resumption of hostilities yesterday upon a larger and bloodier scale. The fighting is not only in full progress at Susha, a town of 30,000 inhabitants, but it has spread to the surrounding country. The Tartar population has risen, and is striving to overwhelm the Armenians and the Russian troops.

General Zolobakhov, commander of the Russian forces, has appealed urgently for reinforcements. A battalion of riflemen at Yelisevpol, the nearest town where the soldiers are already, has been despatched to the scene.

Sebastopol, July 30.—A naval court martial passed sentences upon the seamen who were arrested for complicity in the mutiny of the Black Sea fleet, of November, 1903. Four men were condemned to death, one to life servitude, thirty-two to varying terms of penal servitude, and 50 to imprisonment. Six were acquitted.

A man named Samenkoff, who was charged with complicity in the attempt with a bomb on the life of General Neptueff, at Sebastopol, May 27, escaped from jail today. He was assisted by a volunteer, who disappeared.

Philippopolis, Bulgaria, July 30.—In an anti-Greek demonstration here tonight the Bulgarian population took possession by force of three of the Greek churches. A Greek and a Macedonian were killed and several were wounded in the fighting. The streets are in the hands of a mob. At a late hour troops were firing blank cartridges at the mob, but did not succeed in dispersing them. Conservation prevails in the Greek quarter, where serious attacks during the night are feared.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The rumour in circulation last night that Gen. Streptoff had been assassinated turns out to be as baseless as the report to the same effect which was in circulation last week.

Yekaterinburg, Russia, July 30.—There is a great agitation among the workmen in this industrial district but the leaders thus far successfully evaded a strike, arguing the necessity of continuing work until the signal is given from Moscow and St. Petersburg. At Yuzovka and Yekaterinodar, however, watching for the general signal, many factory and mine owners have struck. The foreign consuls at Yekaterinburg have made representations to their governments regarding the necessary force for protecting foreign subjects, three foreign managers of mills have been attacked during the past week. A German manager was shot and killed while leaving his factory. A Belgian manager escaped death through the intervention of a policeman whom the workers shot dead, and a French manager was compelled to flee under menace of death. The gendarmes have been reinforced by a detachment of dragoons.

While a train was passing the great monastery located near Bokay by Alexander III cries for help and firing were heard. The train was stopped and a monk said the peasants were attacking the monastery, and that the monks were defending it. He had managed to escape to summon help. He telegraphed the troops of Kharkov, asking that troops be sent to the monastery. The peasantry apparently have seized the telegraph lines.

POLICE RAIDED THE GRILL.

The Provincial license inspectors, with the assistance of Chief Evans and a couple of city constables, made another raid on the Grill restaurant, on First street, opposite Alberta College, last evening. They were in search of liquor, and found it.

About ten-thirty the inspectors and police entered the restaurant. There were several parties taking lunch at the time. The inspectors went below to the cellar and ran into white rows of bottles which contained upon investigation champagne and wine. There were also four barrels of Edmonton beer. The police took charge of the booze and locked it up in the city police station. No information has yet been laid against the proprietor of the Grill, when a quantity of liquor was found in the premises, and the proprietor was fined $50. Since that time the police and inspectors have kept a watchful eye upon the place, but for some time nothing happened to warrant a raid.

EDMONTON LOSES IN FOOTBALL.

The Edmonton football team lost to Strathcona last evening, the first league game, played on Strathcona grounds, by a score of four goals to one. The game, despite the one-sided score, was interesting and keenly contested. The Edmonton team showed lack of team practice, but the individual players were good. Their only goal was scored in the first minute. The ball was carried down with a good combination and McLaughlin made a long shot, successfully. The Capital forwards pressed hard several times but the Strathcona goal keeper was too much for them. Smith of Edmonton refereed. The final game will be played next Monday evening in Edmonton.

THE BEEF INVESTIGATION

Hon. W. T. Finlay is going after the alleged beef combine in the proper manner. Rightly or wrongly rumors have long been circulating that the low price paid the producer for his beef was not due solely to the contingencies of supply and demand but that there existed an understanding among the buyers which enabled them to reap an unreasonable reward at the expense of the farmer and rancher. It is time that these rumors were investigated and either proven true or false. If true the farmer and rancher are entitled to relief; if false the buyers are entitled to be freed from the imputation. Whether or not they are well founded can only be ascertained by an investigation. An investigation broad enough to cover the whole field of the cattle industry and thorough enough to disclose the inner workings of the business. It is accomplished this it was necessary to secure the co-operation of the provincial governments of Saskatchewan, Manitoba and probably of British Columbia. That the Saskatchewan government would join in the cause was a foregone conclusion and the press dispatches intimate that the lethargy of the Roblin regime has been broken by consent to participate. Should British Columbia be equally willing the commissioners should get down to work at an early date. The program is to hold sittings throughout the provinces at which sworn evidence will be taken as to the conduct of the beef cattle business. By this means opportunity will be given both accusers and accused to present evidence in support of their claims.

THE RUSSIAN TRAGEDY

Were it not that Russia has been so long seething with strife the scenes depicted by the press despatches of the last few days would be taken as the introduction to the final act. Repetition robs an event of significance and an outbreak of daily occurrence in Russia would if it happened elsewhere be considered the final rupture between oppressive authority and a down-trodden people. But scenes of similar nature and sometimes of similar magnitude have been common occurrences in Russia for years. It is by the general trend, however, rather than the isolated incident that a national movement must be judged and by this standard the last wild scene in the Russian tragedy cannot be far distant. That despite the fluctuation of fortune affairs that have fended steadily and speedily downward there can be no question and while the reactionary powers have displayed a surprising tenacity in more than one critical moment there are elements in the present situation with which they have not previously had to grapple. The dissolution of the Duma was probably the greatest disappointment the Czar could have given his people. Better never to have called a parliament than call it only to disperse the members when they voice the grievances of their constituents. Six months ago the Czar faced a wronged but leaderless people who were disposed to credit him personally with good intentions and to charge their wrongs upon his ministers; to-day he faces those people freshly wronged, estranged, but no longer leaderless. The dissolution of the Duma they construe as the withdrawal of a proffered remedy at the hand of the Czar himself, while the indignities heaped upon their representatives have made these men heroes in the people's eyes. These men are leaders—chosen such by the people and confirmed as such by the abuse of the Czar himself. How they will use their influence was well shown in their stirring appeal to the soldiers of Russia—all the more significant and probably more stirring because it was issued by fugitives. The dismissal of the Duma has been followed by the choice of a reactionary Premier and the resort to the traditionally abusive means to extort taxes from the peasants. If these are not the final scenes the fault is not with the Czar.

AN UNWORTHY SUSPICION

Earl Grey is spending a holiday in Newfoundland the guest of Governor MacGregor. But he is doing so neither on the invitation nor with the approval of the islanders. Curiously enough the people of Newfoundland have become persuaded that Canada is determined to annex their colony and make it part of the Dominion. Still more curiously the people of Newfoundland construed, or were represented as construing the visit of the Canadian Governor General as some part of a deep laid plot by which they were to be coerced into confederation. Which ever may have been the real condition of affairs, the news that the Earl was en route to Newfoundland had barely reached St. Johns, when Premier Bood was out with a pronouncement declaring that neither part nor lot in investigating, or abetting the plirgrimage. Newspapers supporting the colonial government took up the strain and discouraged the proposal to tender the distinguished visitor a public reception of any kind. In this however, courtesy or common sense appear to have prevailed and according to press reports the Earl's visit is being turned into something of the nature of a fete. If the alleged alarm of the Newfoundlanders really existed it was altogether unnecessary. Canada is not worrying about the annexation of their island. We have considerable territory already in the Dominion which we fondly believe the equal in fertility to Newfoundland and at present we are too busy bringing this under cultivation to connive coupe to extinguish the entity of the insular colony against the will of the people. If Newfoundland wants annexation Canada might consider the matter and would probably derive a certain sentimental satisfaction from the prospect of the incorporation of entire British America under one system of government. But until Newfoundland intimates such desire Canada will try to get along without her. In the meantime we beg our sister colony to cherish no dark suspicions of our intentions, even when our Governor General spends the heat of the Canadian summer in the breath of the Newfoundland fogs.

CURRENT COMMENT

A new temperance argument is being promulgated in Russia where the peasants are urged to abstain from using liquor and thus destroy the revenue which the government derives from this source.

During the week beginning June 25th the plank sidewalks were torn up along Nainoa avenue preparatory to laying cement walks. Up to date there has not been a pile of cement put on the walks and pedestrians have the choice of tramping in sand and gravel on the east side of the street or of performing acrobatic feats on the fragments of the plank walk which popular wrath forced the authorities to replace on the west side. At first we were informed the delay was due to a scarcity of materials and latterly that the contractor was held up pending the installation of catch basins along the street. Both reasons were doubtless correct. But why the basins were not installed and the material secured before the work was undertaken has not been announced. And at any rate ample time has elapsed both for securing material and for installing the catch basins and the work of laying the walks should proceed without further delay.

ANACORTES HERE TO-NIGHT

The fans of Edmonton are preparing for a feast of good things in the baseball line at the second street grounds this evening. The Anacortas' ball team arrives this afternoon for their series of games with the Capitals, and the fans are on their toes until the first one is pulled off.

The Anacortas team comes from Seattle, the big town of Washington state, and is probably the strongest bunch of ball players on the Sound. The Calgary Albertan figures out a line of dogs on the team in this wise: "Spindle caught for the University of Chicago; incidentally played half-back on the champion team which won the championship of the Middle West. Kinnear perhaps is the best amateur pitcher in the Sound country. Russ Hall, of the Seattle Coast league team, has lined out for him.

Kayson has played first base for Rainiers for three years and leads that club in hitting.

White, second base, old Northern leaguer.

Whittemore, short stop, played outfield and third base for Seattle Rainiers.

McGinnis, third base and pitcher, played with fast amateur teams in Seattle in former years, and this year has been with Anacortas all season. Billy Reeves, left, old leaguer player, very fast in the out field or on first base.

Kid Homer, centre field, a fast amateur outfielder; was with the strong Sedro-Woolley team of two years ago.

Bill Donley, pitcher, was with Dundale at Seattle in the old Northwest league.

Black, right field, a hard hitting amateur, with Anacortas for the past three years.

Commenting on the first game in Calgary on Monday evening the sports man of the Herald also says:

"It was an exciting game and both teams were very anxious to take first blood. This probably accounted for some errors, which figured in unexpected places.

"The game stood 4-4 at the end of the eighth and the visitors were fortunate enough to squeeze in the winning run on a play which was expected to catch a runner coming in from third, but it fell down, and the doughnut went to Whit's men."

The Calgary Albertan remarks: The Anacortas team is a very likely-looking aggregation, composed of very gentlemanly young men, who adorn themselves in very clean garments, and play a good game of baseball."

CRICKET

In the Oechner cup series, Edmonton will play Strathcona on Saturday on Edmonton grounds, game commencing at 2 o'clock sharp. Following is the Edmonton team:

Will Ask B. C. to Join

A Winnipeg dispatch says: Hon. Mr. Finlay, minister of agriculture in the Alberta government, has been interviewing the British Columbia government and endeavoring to secure their support in the appointment of a commission to co-operate with commissioners from Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, in looking into the beef question.

Mr. Finlay gave the reporter some particulars as to the proposed commission. He stated that he had two conferences with the local government, and had asked their support, in the appointment of a commission to thoroughly enquire into all the questions affecting the beef cattle industry in the west. The local government will appoint a commissioner, the premier stating that he was thoroughly in sympathy with the objects desired.

Mr. Finlay expressed pleasure that the local government had entered into the spirit of the subject so well, and that Alberta and Saskatchewan were now assured of the co-operation of the Manitoba government on a question which affects the consumer of meat in Western Canada.

Mr. Finlay, having secured the co-operation of the Manitoba government will now, in company with ministers from the governments of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, wait on the government of British Columbia and ask for its co-operation.

It has been found necessary to ask the co-operation of the government of British Columbia in the question owing to the fact that a considerable amount of the beef industry from Alberta is carried on in British Columbia.

The proposed commission will be composed of a commissioner each from Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. The commission will sit in each province, and take sworn testimony.

The chairman will be, while in the different provinces, the commissioner from the particular province in which the commission is sitting.

Mr. Finlay stated that he believed such a sworn enquiry would bring to light considerable evidence of an interesting nature, which would go to show that there was a combined injury to the beef industry of Western Canada.

The commission, while having much power to deal with the question, may have to go to the Dominion Government to have the law changed on certain points. With all western governments co-operating Mr. Finlay thought that amendments could be secured to the law as it at present stands, which would give the local government more scope on such questions as the beef industry. At the present time local governments can only proceed under the criminal code. "There is something radically wrong with the beef question," declared Mr. Finlay, "and we want to find out exactly what it is, and we will leave no stone unturned to do so."

Mr. Finlay stated that the present price of beef to the consumer was unwarranted, and showed that something had gone wrong. The price paid for cattle on the foot was also down below legitimate value, and the producer suffered in consequence.

Mr. Finlay stated that in his opinion Manitoba was vitally interested in the beef question, as a considerable number of consumers were here which were forced to pay by illegal methods high prices for their meat.

As far as to the scope of the enquiry, Mr. Finlay replied: "The enquiry will be wide as it will take powers to enquire into all phases of the beef cattle question, with a view to finding out exactly how conditions are, and with a view to preventing practices, which, to say the least, are injurious to the beef cattle industry, and harmful to the producer and consumer; and permanently injuring the beef cattle industry in western Canada for the benefit of a few. With the hearty co-operation of the different local governments, and the help of the Dominion government when necessary, the beef cattle industry can be placed on a much firmer footing, which will be a benefit to both the producer and the consumer."

"As far as the Alberta government is concerned, full powers, as far as is allowable under provincial laws, will be granted to the commission; to hold the fullest enquiry into the conditions of the beef cattle industry in Western Canada."

"The scope of the commission will be as wide as possible, and will cover the ground so far as the beef industry is concerned, as thoroughly as possible."

In conclusion Mr. Finlay stated that if British Columbia consented to be a party to the conference, the commission would convene almost at once, but that it would take at least a month to draw up plans and put the necessary evidence in shape to be placed before the commissioners.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SUB-PACKING.

By Prof. H. W. Campbell.
Realizing the fact that few farmers comprehended the vital importance of the sub-surface packer, it certainly is not out of place in this number to devote considerable space to its merits.

In the first place, let us consider some of the practical demonstrations of the effect of packing the under portion of the furrow. The first experiment which really called my attention to sub-packing as the direct cause of increased yield was in 1885. In 1882 we had harvested the best crop of spring wheat I had ever seen in any section. This was in the northern part of South Dakota, the yield being more than 40 bushels per acre. The straw was long and stiff and the harrower was raised to the highest point in order that as little unnecessary straw as possible need be cut to handle.

In due time the field was cleared of the crop and the plowing done to a fair depth. On account of no rain that fall the soil was rather dry during the winter. Considerable snow fell, however, so that in the spring all of the plowed ground to the full depth of plowing was moist. Work of harrowing and seeding began as soon as the frost would permit. First, three horses were driven over the field attached to a harrow, second, two horses attached to a seeder, and third, three horses attached to the harrow the second time. Going over the field three times with these teams resulted in many foot prints. Strange as it may seem, the only wheat that grew to any reasonable height and produced heads of grain was sown in these foot prints where the weight of the horse had made the soil firm to the sub-soil below. In the remainder of the field the top soil was held up from the sub-soil by the long stubble that had been turned under the fall before.

Two years later we rented 100 acres and the seed was put in with an end-gate weeder, a device attached to the end of a common farm wagon and driven by a sprocket wheel attached to the wagon wheel. In operating this one man tended the machine and another man drove the team, both riding. In addition to the weight of wagon and men there was also that of from four to six bushels of wheat carried. This total weight caused the wheels to firmly pack the soil to the bottom. Here again there was a marked illustration of the importance of sub-packing. The season being somewhat dry the stand of wheat in the field generally was thin and short, while in these wheel tracks it was at least a half taller, much thicker and productive of a far better berry.

To clearly grasp the force of value of any scientific principle, it is necessary that we understand the reasons why. The great difficulty we have to contend with in the growing of crops in the semi-arid sections is to be able to carry the crop through some protracted dry period without damage to the crop. To add to the force of this let me say that many times during the early years of struggle for existence in North and South Dakota, I have heard men say that if rain had come one day sooner or two or three days or a week sooner their crops would have been saved.

In the face of the above facts it is apparent that we must do everything in our power to provide moisture in ample, available quantities to carry these crops at least a few days longer than they would otherwise live.

The first step is to store ample moisture below the surface to supply the needs of the crop at any and all times. The next but equally vital step is to control this water, so far as it may be possible, by increasing the water holding capacity of the soil and by increasing the power of capillary attraction and thus lifting the moisture as rapidly as possible from our storage house below up to the soil in which the main feeding roots of the plants carry on their active work of gathering the necessary plant elements. This is all brought about by thoroughly tining and firming the seed and root bed.

In addition to controlling the moisture, this packing of the lower portion of the furrow slice also facilitates a more liberal growth of roots and nodules and increases the available supply of nitrates and bacteria. All this providing the surface is kept below to admit air and prevent the loss of moisture by evaporation. The packing of the lower portion of the furrow slice is not only important in increasing the yield of the crop you plant this year but if the work is properly done even on quite sandy soil it absolutely prevents the soil from blowing.

Some advantages of deep plowing and sub-packing are these:
First, it increases the water holding capacity of the soil.

Why everybody likes Abbey's Salt.

It is so pleasant to the taste that even children take it with pleasure. It does not "cake" or flake on top of the water.

It effervesces slowly—may be drunk leisurely, without choking or blinding the user like seidlitz powders.

The granules all dissolve—thus the full benefit of the salt is obtained with every dose.

It is the ideal laxative and tonic to purify the blood—regulate stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels—and build up the system.

33 British Fight 400 Zulus

Rorke's Drift Recalled in Battle Fought With Bambaata's Men.

The Natal Mercury of a recent date gives the following graphic account of fighting in connection with the rebellion of Bambaata. The fight referred to in which thirty-three Britishers had to cope with four hundred rebels was mentioned in the Associated Press despatches and the following detailed account will be read with interest.

An engrossing story of stirring adventure and hair-breadth escape from death at the hands of furious savages was told to me today by Captain Clark of C Squadron, Royston's Horse, who accompanied the little band of irregulars which was attacked by Bambaata's rebels in Nkandha Forest on the first instant and held its ground—thirty-three against four hundred—until after five of the number had been killed and ten wounded, its regiment came to the rescue. Captain Clark was himself wounded in five places—in the eye, in the thigh, an assegai wound and a bullet grazed on the right arm, and a nasty injury with a dum-dum in the left leg, and he has now been invalided to Maritzburg, where he is attending Grey's hospital as an out-patient.

This is the story. On Sunday week, Colonel McKenzie decided that the bush would be to be swept as he had received some information that the rebels were somewhere concealed there. The native levies are none too keen on the work of this kind, unless they have the white men there to put meat into them, and Royston's Horse were only too eager to undertake this dangerous duty. To them accordingly was given the work of finding the rebels' place of concealment, and they entered the bush in a long line, beating and thoroughly scouring it as they pushed up the hill in the direction of Getway's grave. I noticed that the underbrush bore clear evidence of having recently been trodden down by scores of passing feet. I had scarcely remarked this when a figure seemed to flit past a patch of brush some fifteen paces distant and I was just in the act of passing the word to be on the look-out when one of the rebels stepped from behind a tree and deliberately aimed at me with a rifle. I fired. He missed me, and the bullet struck the third man down the line.

RUSHED IN SWARMS Then it began. It was just like a beehive overturning—they came out in swarms, rushing down straight at us, and natives and our men alike were forced back by the mere impetuosity of the rebels' descent upon us. I emptied my magazine carbine at them and then I went after my own men into a steep dingle which lay just behind us. As I went, I fired my revolver, as fast as it could be reloaded, right into the thick of them; but two natives nearly had me. They both marked me and threw their assegais, but missed, coming at me again with their stabbing assegais. One made his thrust before the other and I shot him in the shoulder. He dropped like a stone, and I gave him another. Then the second brought his assegai up for a lunge, but I managed to swing my carbine around just in time to catch the blade on the breast, but the point clanced upwards and gave me a cut on the eyelid. That was my narrowest squeak of the whole day. I think for the pull of my heavy carbine made me lose my foothold, and I slipped, rolling over and sliding down the side of the dingle. When I stopped I found that I had lost my revolver, for it had slipped out of my hand and I was almost giving it up for lost—for the other native was crashing through the brushwood after me—when I discovered that the cord was still around my neck, with my revolver still attached to it. There was no time to reload, however, so I slipped a cartridge into the empty magazine of my carbine, and as the native leaped forward I let him have that. It took him in the chest, and killed him instantly.

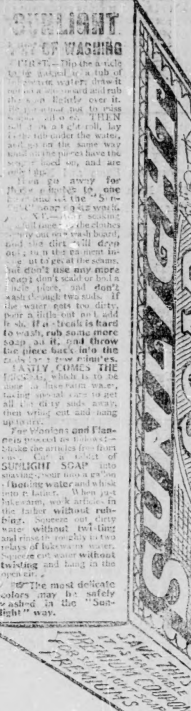

Then I looked around for my men. Some one called out, "Here we are, sir," and I found the rest of my squadron in the dingle about thirty yards away from where we were attacked. All this time the rebels had been coming on and our men had taken cover and were steadily returning their fire. The air was thick with bullets and assegais and some of our casualties had already occurred. When I got up to my men I found Sgt. Fraser, a New Zealander, fighting furiously in his shirt—a white one, and a splendid mark for the rebel snipers—and though he had his clothes full of holes torn by bullets as well as assegais, he got out without a scratch. Trooper Flynn, an American, was fighting with his face covered with blood, for he had got an assegai cut on his cheek and a bullet had caught him in the corner of his eye, blinding him for the time being, but he went on firing, for it was almost point blank. Trooper Holmes was shot through the thigh and Corporal Woolnough in the ankle. Corporal Alexander, poor chap, was killed just as I came up, by an assegai which entered behind his shoulder, and nearly transfixed him.

The One Right Steel Plate Range

Until we found out just the right way to use asbestos to keep the heat in a cooking range where it must cook the food instead of cooking the cook—every steel-plate range kept the kitchen broiling-hot. This range is a cool range—the top shield and lining is thick asbestos, so the heat stays inside the range and keeps even evenly hot. Food is better cooked, quicker cooked and cooked for less fuel-cost.

Of Interest to Farmers

Second, it increases the upward movement of moisture by capillary attraction.

Third, it facilitates the development of available nitrates and bacteria.

Fourth, it makes it possible for the little hair rootlets or feeders of the main lateral roots to permeate this soil in every direction.

Fifth, with these four combined conditions and with water previously stored below it is possible for the plant to resist the ill effects of any dry period common to the most arid sections.

Sixth, with the above five conditions present the farmer is assured of a very much larger crop than otherwise when proper cultivation is given, and finally the presence of these conditions and their results very greatly increases the profits of the farmer who carries out their provisions as outlined.

THE WHEAT OUTLOOK.

The persistency of the reports of black rust in the Dakotas and the red rust in isolated districts in Manitoba has temporarily scared operators on the short side of wheat and has caused a slight rise in prices. The red rust has been noticed only on the leaves of the wheat. However, the fact that red rust is not a preliminary stage in the life history of the disastrous black rust, has spread a good deal of nervous activity in wheat circles. The last week has been quite favorable, the crop is a week nearer maturity and the danger is at a minimum.

Nothing that has yet happened that leads the high authorities on the wheat output, to come below the 100 million mark for the Canadian western crop.

Every daily report shows the abundance and quality of the American winter crop which is moving quickly to the markets. A great deal of the wheat marketed by farmers is reaching at once the large storage centres instead of being taken by the local millers whose supply and stocks are not cleaned out.

The situation in the United States hangs between the assured largeness of the winter crop, and the uncertainty of the outcome of the spring wheat crop, which causes prices to run up and down. The final result of the week has been to lower wheat 1-4 to 3-4.

The world's shipments continue small but this is counteracted by the increase in the visible supply.

U. S. CROP REPORTS.

The crop will be safe in from ten days to two weeks. The United States will have a surplus above home needs of over 300,000,000 bushels, and with Canada, about 400,000,000 bushels. No such outlook for an enormous yield has ever been in prospect on the American continent—H. V. Jones, crop expert.

I have just returned from South Dakota, where I examined the wheat fields. The prospect for a fine crop is simply magnificent. There is not enough black rust to make a fly-speak. James A. Patton, of Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington, Chicago, one of the foremost wheat men in the world.

We are bound to have a good, fair crop. Nothing but earthquakes can prevent that. Prospects are extremely favorable for a bumper crop, both in the three great wheat producing states and in Canada—Consensus of opinion of Minneapolis bankers.

The only black rust we have been able to discover has been in the minds of a few speculators—Consensus of opinion of Minneapolis millers.

Strathcona

Strathcona, Aug. 2—The town council held their regular meeting in the chamber last evening. Aldermen Cowles, Douglas, Richards, Elliott, MacKenzie, Secretary-Treasurer Downes and Town Engineer McLean being present. In the absence of Mayor Sheppard, Alderman Cowles was voted to the chair. Minutes of last regular meeting and also minutes of special meeting, held July 24th, were read by the secretary and approved.

Considerable discussion followed the reading of communications on the unsanitary conditions of the town. Policemen were authorized to attend to this matter and the scavenger to put on a larger force and make better arrangements for his work.

The petitions and tenders were referred to the public works committee with power to act.

Night Policemen Harris was voted $10 per month increase in wages.

Mr. Atkinson, representative of the Canadian Wooden Water Pipe company, of Vancouver, was present and addressed the council re defective pipes and breaks in the water works system. He stated that wooden pipes were largely used on the Pacific coast, both in the United States and British Columbia, and were giving the best of satisfaction. Seattle had 40 miles of wooden pipes, Tacoma 35 miles, Portage La Prairie 6 miles. He said he would remain in town this week and look carefully into the matter and see the manner of laying them and examine the pipes which had leaked and been taken up. He said, too, that his company would deal fairly with the town and make allowance for all defective pipes and expense in digging them up and said they would not do business long unless they manufactured a good article and did a fair business.

The following bills and accounts were read by the secretary-treasurer: J. T. Blowsy $73.15, Wo Lee laundry $25.55, P. Roll-Palmer $67.50, W. B. Allen $6.25, G. Green $6.50, secretary-treasurer $17.75, E. S. B. Smart $75, Plaindealer $25, C. P. R. freight $11.25, J. Gainer $14, Elliott Bros (insurance) $17, P. B. L. $40, Miss Vance $10.50, W. J. off $13, Buffalo Electric Co. $24.70, Carriage Co. $32, C. P. R. freight $228.50, pay roll (Leslie & Snow) $209, options (allowed) $300, F. Peel $2, Massey Harris $10,

A. Petty $45.50, S. Wiley $10.50, H. J. Smith $11.37, J. Dietz $16.07, Miss Somersall $30, Dominion Express Co. $4.35, Garland Packing Co. $28.50, Gray Bros. $10, C. Mc Nulty $6, Can. Foundry Co. $8.40, Miss Torfield $26.85, Geo. Arncliffe $48.5, Rutherford & Jamieson $24.05, McLean & Co. $924.03, S. Langevin $3, Can. Rubber Co. $29.95.

Messrs. Douglas and Elliott moved that the above accounts be referred to the finance committee and if found correct, be paid.

Acting Mayor Cowles reported that the committee formed by the council to look into the Allen Parks Co. question, had not yet got together for business and hence he reported no progress. Considerable discussion followed re extension of Duggan street across S. O'Brien's property and Aldermen Douglas and Elliott moved that the public works committee be given power to settle this question at once.

The disposal of the wood from trees lately cut on the public streets came up for discussion and settlement. Messrs. McKenzie and Richards moved that the public works committee be authorized to advertise for tenders for the wood in the local papers and that the best offer be accepted. Carried.

The disposal of the old engine in the power house was the next subject dealt with and was left in the hands of the F. W. and Light committee and the secretary was requested to ask tenders for its sale and removal.

General discussion followed on the putting of the streets in a better state of repair. Town Engineer McLean read certain actions of the contract between the town and Contractors Dietz and Main, for the general improvement of the council. Alderman Elliott, of the health and relief committee, gave a brief resume of hospital affairs and said that the owner, Mr. Barry, was willing to build an addition to the hospital or even to erect a separate building on the present hospital grounds, and had asked him (Mr. Elliott) to get plans and estimates of proposed addition and he would erect same and charge a reasonable rent therefor. He said, too, that he had looked over several sites for a new building. The committee were asked to get plans and estimates of new addition and look up new sites for a general new town hospital and report at next meeting.

CZAR SAYS HE WAS DISAPPOINTED

Following is the text of the Czar's manifesto dissolving Parliament, which has not been previously published in Canada:

"We called the representatives of the nation by our will to the work of productive legislation, confiding firmly in divine clemency and believing in the great and brilliant future of our people. We expected benefits for the country from their labours. We expected great reforms in all departments of national life. We have always devoted the greatest care to the removal of the ignorance of the people by facilitating conditions of agricultural work. A cruel disappointment has befallen our expectations. The representatives of the nation, instead of applying themselves to the work of productive legislation, strayed into a sphere beyond their competence, and have been making comments on the imperfections of the fundamental laws, which can only be modified by our Imperial will. In short, they have initiated of the nation have undertaken really illegal acts, such as an appeal to the power of Parliament. The peasants, disturbed by such abnormal feeling no hope for the amelioration of their lot, resorted in a number of districts, to open pillage, destruction or other people's property, and disobedience of law. But our subjects ought to remember that improvement in the lot of the people is only possible under conditions of perfect order and tranquility. We shall not allow arbitrary, illegal acts and shall impose our Imperial will on the disobedient by all the force of the power of the state.

"We call on well-disposed Russians to unite for the maintenance of legal power and the restoration of peace to our dear fatherland. May calm be re-established in the Russian land. May God help us realize the chief aim of our tasks, that of reform of the lot of the peasants. Our will on this point is unshakable, and Russian husbandmen, without other people's property being encroached upon, will be supplied, in cases where peasants' lands are too small, with legal and honest means for the enlargement of their property. Representatives of other classes will, at our request, devote all efforts to the realization of this great task, which will be performed definitely in a legislative manner by a future Parliament.

"In dissolving Parliament we confirm our immutable intention of keeping this institution, and in conformity with this intention, we appoint March 5, 1907, the date of convocation of the new Parliament by a ukase addressed to the Senate.

"With an unshakable belief in divine clemency and the good sense of the Russian people, we shall expect from the new Parliament a realization of our efforts by their introduction of legislation in accordance with the requirements of regenerated Russia.

"Faithful sons of Russia, your Emperor calls on you to unite with him for the regeneration of the holy fatherland.

"We believe that this grant in thought and action will appear, and that, thanks to their assiduous efforts, the glory of Russia will continue to shine."

Prisoners Transferred From Stony Mountain Arrive Last Night

Travelling in a special, barricaded car, with windows heavily barred, the gang of twenty-four convicts, who have been transferred from Stony Mountain to the Alberta penitentiary, arrived with the late train from the south last evening at the Strathcona depot, and were brought over to the city in buses. The convicts were in charge of Col. Irvin, warden at Stony Mountain, and four officers, H. Pierce, W. Bohling, J. Smith, and E. Freeman. They were met at Strathcona by Inspector Dawson, Warden McAuley, Architect Adams and Accountant Cashman. The prisoners were all in good spirits, and appeared pleased with the change. They were taken direct to the penitentiary, and confined in the cells.

Col. Irvin says that the trip from Winnipeg was uneventful. The prisoners were supplied with plenty of reading matter during the trip, and everything went pleasantly. Col. Irvin and the guards will return to Stony Mountain in a few days.

CONGREGATIONALISTS MAY START A CHURCH

Rev. Wm. Ewing, Missionary Superintendent of the Sunday School Publishing Society of the American Congregational church, and Rev. Ernst B. Weeks, deputation agent of the Colonial Missionary society of London, England, have been making an extended tour of the Canadian West during the past eight weeks, with a view to the formation of a report on the needs of the western Canadian mission fields. Mr. Ewing has been loaned to the Congregational body of Eastern Canada for the special purpose of this investigation, and the results of his coming may be very far-reaching.

Since 1904 the eastern Congregational churches have been making a vigorous effort to clear off the debts on their own churches, and with the aid of the Colonial Missionary society of London they have been enabled to do this effectively. It is understood that fully $100,000 has been raised during the past eighteen months for the sole purpose of lifting the debt on the churches. In addition to this the Colonial missionary board contributed $20,000 toward the same purpose.

Prompted by the American Congregationalists and the English body, who are now conspicuous among the non-conformists for their wealth and influence, the Eastern Canadian congregations are undertaking home missionary work in the west. Their plans are to be determined by the reports that the delegation which is now touring the west submit, and it is probable that the Congregationalist body will assume an important place beside the other Protestant bodies in the towns and cities.

Mr. Weeks seems particularly impressed with the growth of the cities in the new provinces. Churches may be established at Brandon, Regina, and Calgary. Calgary will possibly be the centre for new missionary superintendents, who will organize work in the country districts. The Colonial Missionary Society is a branch of the London Missionary society, and its purpose is to assist struggling churches in the colonies, and to establish missions wherever considered expedient.

It seems to be fairly well established now that the failure of certain Southern Alberta farmers to raise a winter wheat crop was due to a large extent simply to poor farming. William Wood of Raymond told the Magazine Pioneer that he had 75 acres sown and had never seen a better field in his life. He would not be surprised if he got 30 bushels to the acre. To deep plowing and deep drilling he attributes his success.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed, "Tender for Lock and Dam," St. Andrew's Rapids, Red River, Man., will be received at this office until the 15th day of September, for the construction of a concrete Lock and Dam at St. Andrew's Rapids, Red River, Province of Manitoba.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, for the sum of sixty-five thousand dollars ($65,000), which will be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender is not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender. By order,

FRED GELINAS, Secretary.
